

Trip Impact Report

Year Group: 5	Location: Slavery Museum	Date: 14.11.2024
-------------------------	------------------------------------	----------------------------

Summary of trip (including purpose and links to the curriculum)

Children to become familiar with the impact that the triangular slave trade had on Liverpool which led to its growth from a small fishing town to a wealthy city.

To learn the details of the slave trade, the legacy of racism that it left behind and what we can do to counteract this today.

Pupil Voice (including pupil impact)

What I enjoyed....

The lady in the museum knew lots but I enjoyed talking to her about Oloudah Equiano, I think she was impressed with how much we knew. – Annie

I liked looking at all the things in Liverpool, but my favourite was the dry dock where they used to fix the slave ships. – Charlotte

Why I enjoyed it....

It was good to see all the stuff we had learnt about in the museum. I liked the wall of famous black people, especially all the footballers and Nelson Mandela and I'd never thought of racism as a legacy of slavery. It made me sad. - Zac

The impact it has had/will have on my learning is....

It's been shocking learning about the past but we just need to make sure it doesn't happen again. - Ben

My next steps in learning following the trip are...

I would like to learn more about the people who helped stop slavery. There were lots of them but we only learnt about a few - Carter

Parent Voice

A great trip, I learned so much I didn't know about Liverpool. I love history and this was a brilliant trip to be part of. (Ivy-Rae's dad)

When we visited the St John's Garden's I was really impressed by the respect the children showed at the cenotaph. Their emotion when they talked about the place once being a cemetery where slaves were buried was incredible. I was impressed. (Fern's dad)

The children were great. They had lots of energy and it was lovely to learn with them. (Finlay's nan)

Thank you so much for organising the trip – Annie has talked about it non-stop and learnt so much. (Annie's mum)
